Giorgi Babunashvili Urban Lab

Location: Tbilisi, Georgia

Timeline: September 2017 – August 2019

Project Description

The film project is centered on the unfinished entrance of Tbilisi subway station "Akhmeteli Theatre." This entrance has been constructed at about 90% and abandoned in 1993. Once opened, it has the potential to reduce traffic jams near the station and provide pedestrians with more space for free mobility.

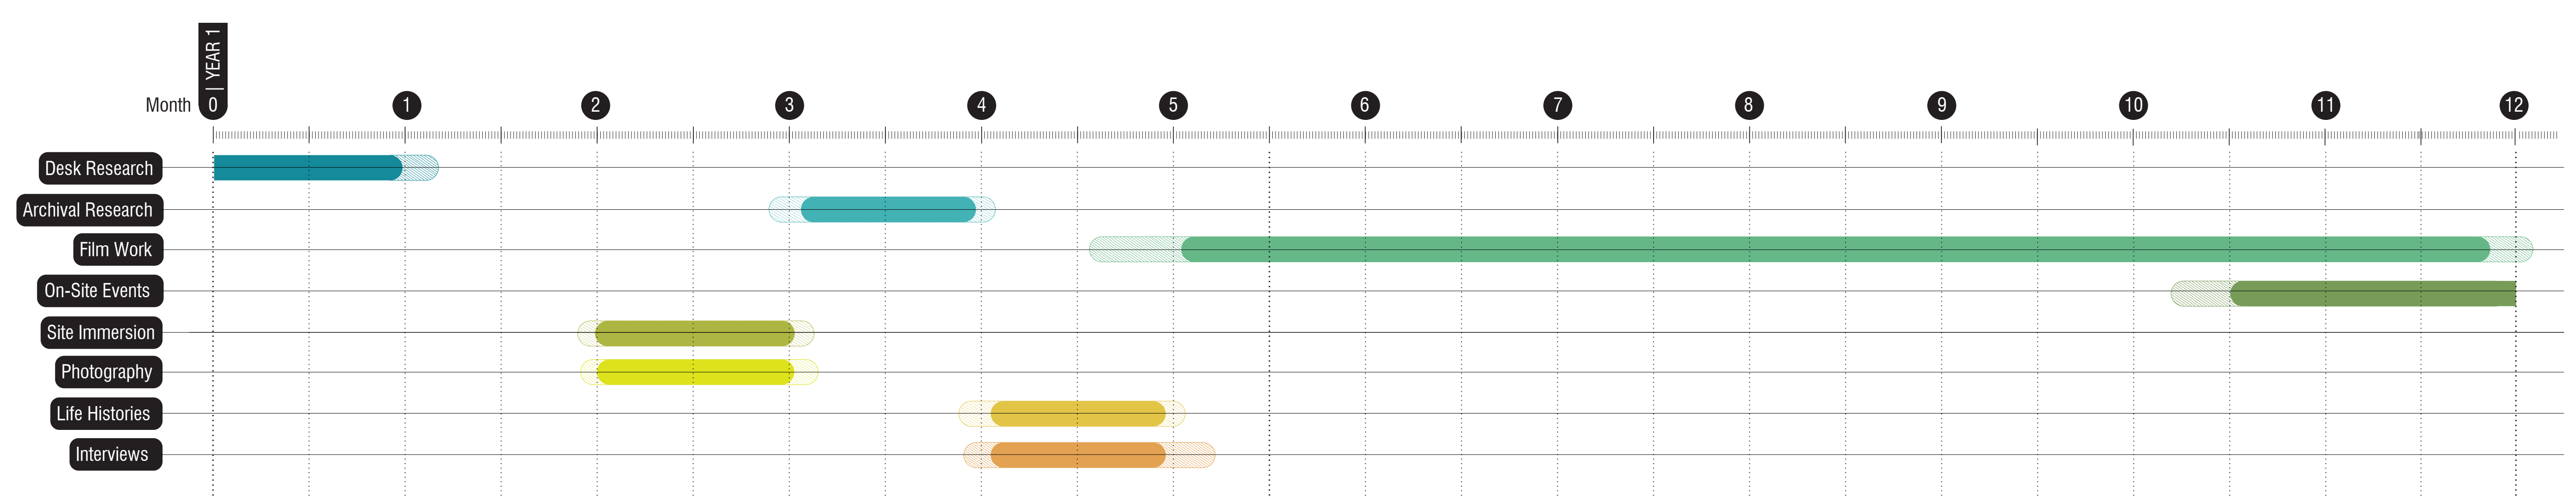

Prior to the film we have visited the site and gathered photo material, as well as collected archived materials from the library and collected anecdotal evidence from the workers.

The film aims to inform citizens and decision makers about the potential of the site, if it is completed. We see the film as a part of a broader advocacy campaign for promoting the station's completion and mobilizing citizens' support for this campaign. Currently, City Hall is conducting a pre-feasibility study for opening this site. We consider our campaigning efforts to have played a certain role in these efforts.
